POLITICAL GOSSIPS

When one class of people has anything to say, it has become largely the custom to make a political issue out of it instead of a friendly discussion, to print it in a law book instead of a newspaper and to argue it before a jury instead of to settle it in the higher courts of Common Sense. As a result, political agitators, political lawyers, political preachers and masculine women are powerful in politics and dissension, selfishness, intolerance and hysterics run rampant in public affairs, for when the low, damp, murky atmosphere of misunderstanding envelops public thought it breeds political reptiles, vermin, bugs and lice which the pure air of truth and the sunshine of understanding will choke to death.

We have too many self-appointed interpreters of industry who are incapable of grasping the fundamental principles of business and who at best can only translate gossip and add color to sensational stories. No business can stand upon error and might rules—right or wrong. No industry can thrive upon misunderstanding, for public opinion is more powerful than a King's sword.

When prejudice, suspicion and class hatred prevail, power gravitates into the hands of the weak, for demagogues thrive upon dissension and statesmen sicken upon strife.

The remedy lies in eliminating the middleman—the political gossip—and this result can be accomplished by the managers of business sitting around the table of industry and talking it over with the people. Interchange of information between industries and the people is as necessary to success in business as interchange in commodities, for the people can only rule when the public understands. Away with political interpreters who summon evil spirits from their prison cells and loose them to prey upon the welfare of the people in the name of "My Country."

PHILIP

Philip, the Macedonian king, while drowsy with wine was trying a case and the prisoner after sentence was pronounced, exclaimed, "I appeal." "And to whom do you appeal?" inquired the astonished monarch. "I appeal from Philip drunk to Philip sober," replied the prisoner, and the king granted the request and at a rehearing gave the prisoner his liberty. The people drowsy with the wine of discord oftentimes pronounce a verdict on public questions which they reverse in their more calm and deliberate moments. The next best thing to making no mistakes is to correct them.

Sheep Shearing a Crime.

A jury of 12 men in Circuit Judge Davis' court at Portland, Ore., decided that shearing sheep in December and leaving them exposed to the rigors of winter weather is cruelty to animals. After being out four hours the jury returned a verdict upholding the decision of District Judge Jones in fining Lester Willard, a Troutdale sheepman, $100. Humane society officials handled the case, and it was they who caused the arrest of Willard on December 19. Willard's defense was that the shearing rid the sheep of ticks with which they had been troubled. It was alleged that a number of the sheep died of exposure.

War Darkness Helps Eyesight.

The wartime custom of darkening streets and houses wherever possible to avoid aeroplane attacks, however inconvenient, is having at least one good effect, according to London oculists, who maintain that the eyesight of the residents is being preserved. One writer claims that the darkness is having a decided effect from a social standpoint, and that singing and games are increasing in British homes just because of the contrasted coziness with the gloomy streets.

Vogue of White Paint.

A clever decorator who remodeled the dining room in a New England farm house has even gone so far in her use of white paint as to finish the floors with it. The woodwork and furniture were also white, but plenty of color was introduced by bright chintz-patterned paper and plain bright green rugs. The white dining room table was always bare, which allowed the mistress to use many attractively colored dolly sets. Her china showed up to splendid advantage on this white ground, and the flowers from the garden seemed unusually bright and pretty in the midst of all this white. A country house near Cleveland has all its floors painted white, with bright green, blue and purple rugs used to carry out certain color schemes. Of course, using white on floors is practical only when you are far from the city's smoke or motor's dust.—The Country Life Magazine.

FAIR NEWS.

The Board of Fair Trustees for the State of Tennessee has invited President Woodrow Wilson to Nashville and to the Tennessee State Fair, September 22nd, Tennessee Day. It is possible that the President may attend, should the great stress under which he now labors in guiding the government through this period of war and turbulence among the nations cease.

Hon. H. K. Bryson, our Commissioner of Agriculture, was out at the Fair Grounds last week and inspected the $25,000 building improvements now under way. He was very much elated with the progress made and the added facilities for the accommodation and comfort they will give exhibitors and visitors.

The wide-awake farmers and breeders all over the State are busy coaxing their pumpkins, watermelons, corn, fruit, etc., to put on extra weight, and size, and color, and form, and quality; their horses, ponies, jacks, mules, cattle, sheep, hogs and chickens to put on their holiday attire and be in readiness to receive the blue ribbons at the Tennessee State Fair.

TAXPAYERS MEETING.

To all tax payers, public spirited and progressive men:

There will be a mass meeting held in the courthouse in Crossville on the 28th day of August, 1915, at one o'clock for the purpose of considering the construction and maintenance of good roads, throughout Cumberland county.

By a recent act of the Legislature our county court was authorized to issue bonds to the amount of $200,000.00 which was done by the court, but when said bonds were advertised for sale by the commissioners, they failed to receive any bids for the same.

Now, let's get together and build roads regardless of whether or not the bonds sell.

YELLOWSTONE "HELP".

Includes Students and Teachers, Who Entertain Themselves and Have Their Own Dictionary.

When the Yellowstone hotel and camp men shipped their seasons "help" to the park early in June to be ready for the rush of visitors, the special train of that carried them affords plenty of fun for the cities at which it stopped en route. It was a merry crowd that filled the fifteen Pullmans, one that knew how to entertain itself exceedingly well. The employees have their own lexicon of descriptions," says the Salt Lake City News, describing the scene at the station. "The terms used to designate different classes of help are as follows: Savages—all the help in ageneric sense; Heavers—dining room help; Wranglers—horse herders; Barn dogs—help used in tile corals; Swaddies—soldiers in the park; Dudes—all tourists; Mulligan Dump—where the drivers eat. The aesthetic designation of Biscuit shooter is applied to the hotel waiters.

The regular hotel help is strictly professional, but the camp help is largely amateur. The Wylie Camping Co. alone received 5,000 applications for 350 places many of the applicants being school teachers college students, and high school pupils of both sexes.

SALT LICKS FOR YOSEMITE.

These have been Located in the Yosemite in Spots which will Attract Deer into View of Visitors.

In order that the visitors at the Yosemite this summer may have an opportunity to see some of the wild creatures which abound in the woods, quantities of crystal salt are being deposited in many places convenient for deer and elk and within sight of roads and scenic spots frequented by tourists.

Yosemite shelters very large numbers of harmless wild animals, but few persons would even suspect their presence. But Yosemite animals are accustomed to the sight of men and are never harmed. Consequently, in spite of the natural instinct of all wild creatures to hide from man, there is every reason to believe that the salt licks which are extremely popular with deer, will bring many hundreds of them within view.
